

From: "Errol Nicholson" <Errolnicholson@comcast.net>
To: <cityclerk@rockvillemd.gov>
Date: 05/04/2012 12:44 PM
Subject: May 14 meeting

I do not understand the following sentence under the proposed changes being look at:

* Heating and cooling equipment is not required to be Energy Star certified if it meets or exceeds the Energy Star requirements. (So it is required?) Is it even lawful to require higher standards higher the Dept. of Energy minimums of 13 SEER for a/c (soon to be 14) and 80% for furnaces?

Please help in clarifying.

Thanks,
Errol Nicholson
Md. Master HVAC
240.375.8390